

Names/Faces

They Won't Let Him Forget

"It seems that when things quiet down, someone starts looking for publicity and it starts all over again," complained Watergate burglar Bernard

Barker as he gave a deposition in a multi-million dollar lawsuit filed by fellow Watergater E. Howard Hunt. The suit is against an author who theorizes in a book that Hunt and other Watergate-CIA figures were involved in the John F. Kennedy assassination. Barker and "Frank" Sturgis, another Watergate burglar, were called to give statements by the author, Alan J. Weberman, whose book is "Coup D'Etat in America: The CIA and the Assassination of JFK." Hunt was also supposed to give a deposition but was reported out of town lecturing.